OFFICIAL RETURNS.

Canvassing Boards Met Yesterday to Canvass Vote in the Counties.

THE SENATORIAL PRIMARY.

Official Declaration in New Hanover—Brunswick Goes Republican, But the Democrats Give Simmons a Large Majority.

The County Canvassing Board, composed of one of the number of registrars and judges of election in the several wards, precincts and townships in the county, met yesterday at noon in the Grand Jury room at the Court House but were unable to canvass the vote or declare the result in the absence of returns from the Second Precinct of Harnett township. An adjournment was taken until 11 o'clock this morning and Mr. W. A. Wright was sent to the missing precinct to ascertain the cause of the failure of the election officers there to send a representative and returns as required by law.

All the other wards and precincts were representated and Mr. T. H. Pickett was made chairman of the board and Mr. W. A. Wright, clerk.

The result of the canvass to-day will not materially change the figures of the entire county as presented in the STAR in tabulated form the morning after election.

The Senatorial Primary.

The Democratic County Executive Committee met yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock in its headquarters in the old Court House for the purpose of canvassing the vote in the senatorial primary. The following result was officially declared as required in the plan as adopted by the State Executive Committee:

	Simmons.	Carr.

5th ward, 1st precinct	130	159
5th ward, 2d precinct	117	110
Total	1,428	910

Majority for Simmons, 518.

Col. Waddell received one vote in Fourth ward.

The following resolutions were offered and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the thanks of this committee be tendered the chairman, Mr. E. F. Johnson, for the energetic, faithful and efficient discharge of his duties. The work of the chairman has been exceedingly laborious, there having been two memorable campaigns within the short space of three months, and the splendid victory for White Supremacy in this county reflects credit upon his loyalty and industry.

Resolved, That we express to him our cordial appreciation of his uniform courtesy and fairness to each and every member of the committee. If Democracy never has a less loyal and zealous chairman, it will never know defeat.

Additional State Returns.

The following additional official returns were received by telegraph by the STAR last night:

SOUTHPORT, Nov. 8.—Brunswick's official vote is as follows: McKinley, 643; Bryan, 525; Barker, 26; Dockery, 593; Bellamy, 552; Simmons, 390; Carr, 182.

Simmons more than doubled Carr's vote in the county. Many Democrats failed to come out.

REIDSVILLE, Nov. 8.—The official majorities in Rockingham county: Bryan, 400; Kitchin, 520; Simmons, 975. Big Democratic gains are shown. Kitchin carries the Fifth district by 600 majority.

MONROE, Nov. 8.—Bryan's official majority in Union county is 899. Bellamy led the ticket with a majority of 1,005.

Hon. John D. Bellamy last night received a telegram from Hon. Charles R. Thomas, of Newbern, stating that his majority in the First District for re election Tuesday was over 1,900.

Red Springs 10, Fayetteville 0.

The game of foot ball yesterday morning between Red Springs and Fayetteville, on the latter's grounds, resulted in a victory for the Red Springs eleven. The score stood 10 to 0. A gentleman who arrived from Fayetteville last night said it was a fine exhibition of pig skin chasing and the game was witnessed by a large crowd. He also said that Mr. Jas. Sinclair and Harry Smallbones, of Wilmington, who were on the Fayetteville team, played a brilliant game and were highly praised for their work.

Mr. Sinclair returned home last night and was considerably bruised up from the game. He said Fayetteville put up a strong fight, but the Red Springs eleven were too heavy for them, besides being in better condition.

The Play Last Night.

The Columbia Comic Opera Company last evening presented "Said Pasha" at the Opera House to an audience which was necessarily small on account of the threatening weather. The play was well interpreted, the comedy parts being exceptionally well taken. It deserved a much larger house at the prices and no doubt will receive a better patronage during the remainder of the week. The bill for to-night is "Chimes of Normandy," that tuneful opera which never fails to please. Saturday a matinee will be given and Saturday evening at the closing performance "A Bohemian Girl" will be presented.

Arrested Yesterday Afternoon at White Oak—Tried to Kill His Mother.

William Jones, the young white man who made a fiendish attempt to murder his mother, Mrs. Dinah Jones, on Masonboro Sound Tuesday morning, was captured yesterday afternoon at White Oak, a small station on the Wilmington and Newbern railroad, a few miles this side of Newbern, by Deputies George W. Millis, R. C. Daniels and a young man named William Lumsden, of Masonboro Sound.

Yesterday morning Sheriff Walter G. MacRae, who has been employing every means to arrest Jones, was notified by a responsible party that the criminal got off the train at White Oak last Tuesday, the day he committed the crime. The sheriff sent his deputies out on the afternoon train and soon after their arrival at White Oak had the fugitive in their custody. They will return with their prisoner to-day.

The particulars of the outrage have been given in the STAR and news of the arrest of Jones will be received with much satisfaction. He is a desperate character and will be given the full extent of the law.

Stole Box of Tobacco.

Policeman Newkirk yesterday evening about 7 o'clock arrested Louis Lavender, alias "Skeeter," charged with the larceny of a 25-pound box of tobacco, which he was exposing for sale on Dock between Water and Front streets. The box bore the name of Mr. T. J. Gore, whose store is on the corner of Water and Dock streets, and later Mr. Gore identified the box at police headquarters as a package stolen from his place a few minutes before the arrest. Lavender is locked up at the station house and will be heard by the Mayor this morning as to his possession of the property.

She received twenty tons of coal there and will proceed as soon as possible, if she has not already proceeded.

CAPT. RODERICK MACRAE

Passed Away Last Night at His Home in Wilmington After a Lingering Illness—Esteemed Citizen.

It will be with the profoundest regret that the friends in Wilmington and this section of country will learn this morning of the death of Capt. Roderick MacRae, which occurred last night at 11:30 o'clock at his home, corner of Fifth and Orange streets. While his death was not wholly unexpected on account of the long duration of his illness, it will nevertheless come as a shock to those who knew and admired him for his sterling traits of character and genial and solid disposition and other essential virtues which go to make up the whole man.

Capt. MacRae had been confined to his home for the past five months with a complication of diseases which, combined with kidney trouble, from which he suffered for several years, caused his death. During the period of his last illness his life was despaired of several times, but upon each occasion until the final summons came, by his remarkable fortitude and patient endurance, he rallied and talked cheerfully of his condition.

Capt. MacRae was a son of the lamented General Alexander MacRae and was born in Wilmington sixty-two years ago. He was raised in the Episcopal faith and always exhibited in his daily walk and conversation a rare reverence for justice, honesty and truth, which guaranteed for him the high esteem in which he was so universally held. Soon after receiving his education he was called to the service of his country and fought valiantly as a member of the Eighteenth North Carolina Regiment. After more than a year in this command he entered the blockade service and commanded the blockade runner Owl, from this port, serving in this hazardous capacity until the cessation of hostilities.

Deceased was a civil engineer by profession and exhibited marked talent in this direction. After the war he was connected in this capacity for a number of years with the old Wilmington and Manchester railroad. Later he continued the practice of his profession at Wilmington until a short time before his death, when he was necessarily compelled by his health to retire from active life.

The only surviving member of the immediate family is his brother. Sheriff Walter G. MacRae, of this county, but he has other large and prominent family connection in this city. Messrs. Hugh and Don MacRae are his nephews and Mrs. E. Payne and Mrs. Walter Parsley are his nieces.

The funeral arrangements had not been made last night.

ALFRED ALDERMAN.

Venerable and Highly Esteemed Citizen of Wilmington Passed Away Yesterday.

END OF A USEFUL CAREER.

Died at 12 40 O'clock in the Eighty-sixth Year of His Age—Born in Pender County, But Removed to Wilmington Before the War.

The STAR chronicles with regret this morning the death of one of Wilmington's most venerable and estimable citizens, Mr. Alfred Alderman, who died in his 86th year yesterday afternoon at 12.40 o'clock at his home in this city, No. 315 Mulberry street.

His death was due primarily to old age, the demise having been hastened by two severe falls which he suffered within the past year, the first early last Spring and the last and most serious three weeks ago. Notwithstanding his great age he was actively engaged until the first accident, which befel him on the last day of February. He was out walking in front of his residence and stumbled over a little fence between the pavement and gutter and was severely bruised, as a result of which he was confined to his room for several months. As soon as he was up again, about three weeks ago, he fell again and dislocated his hip and received other severe injuries which rendered him perfectly helpless. He never rallied from this injury and passed peacefully away as stated above.

Deceased was born March 22nd, 1815, near Moore's Creek in Pender county and remained on the farm until 1846 when he removed to Wilmington and began a long and successful career as a naval store inspector on the wharf. In all his dealings his life was marked by honesty, justice and cordiality to all with whom he was in contact. Early in life he connected himself with the Baptist church and was a faithful and consistent member of that denomination until his death. He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Wilmington during the period of his residency here and at the time of his death was senior deacon and a member of the board of trustees.

For some time he was a member of the Board of Aldermen and occupied other positions of trust and responsibility during his life. At the opening of the civil war he was too old for service but was a potent factor in the organization and maintenance of the home guard. He also served for a while with Howard's cavalry, his place having been taken later by his son, Mr. Allison Alderman.

Mr. Alderman is survived by but one brother of a family of fourteen children. The last of the large family of brothers and sisters is Mr. David Alderman, of St. Joseph, Mo., ten years younger than the deceased.

Mr. Alderman was married twice, the first time to Miss Emily Larkins, of Pender county, and a second time on June 27th, 1860, to Miss Mary Sinclair, of Robeson county, who survives him. The first child by the first union was Mrs. W. M. Poisson, who died two years ago. The other surviving children are Messrs. George F., Allison and William H. Alderman, Miss Cornelia Alderman and Mrs. J. W. Alderman.

As a result of the second union there were four children, one of whom died at the age of 14. The three surviving are Rev. E. S. Alderman, president of Bethel College, Russellville, Ky.; Mrs. W. C. Peterson and Miss Katie Alderman, of this city.

The funeral will be from the First Baptist Church this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, and the interment will be in Oakdale cemetery.

DR. STRANGE ACCEPTS THE CALL.

Notifies St. Paul's Vestry, of Richmond, That He Will Come.

[Richmond Dispatch, 8th.]

Mr. W. C. Bentley, register of St. Paul's church, received a letter from Dr. Strange yesterday morning accepting the call to this city. Mr. Bentley replied last night, acknowledging receipt of the welcome intelligence, and urging Dr. Strange to take up the work here as soon as possible. While nothing definite has been settled in regard to the time of Dr. Strange's coming, it is believed that he will arrive about the middle of December. Arrangements have been made for supplying the pulpit until that time.

Dr. Strange's decision is regarded as absolutely final by the members of St. Paul's vestry, and it is not believed that his determination will be shaken by the further conference with the vestry of the Wilmington church, arranged with a sub-committee at the request of the entire vestry.

The Morning Star

BY WILLIAM H. BERNARD.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

FRIDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 9.

ABOUT THE ISSUES.

Some of the Democratic papers which did not support Bryan because he would not renounce his adherence to the free coinage of silver, in discussing the result of the election, say it was hard to make a successful fight against "prosperity," but that McKinley deserved to be beaten and, with other issues and a candidate not so closely identified with the silver question, he might have been defeated. They forget that they had said "prosperity" was a mighty hard thing to fight against, especially, they might have added, when backed by such hustling, unscrupulous managers as Mark Hanna with millions of dollars at his disposal.

But how about the issues? The Kansas City convention, although it reaffirmed the declaration of the Chicago convention on the silver coinage question, subordinated that to the question of expansion at the muzzle of a gun, which it proclaimed to be the "paramount" question, and so did Mr. Bryan in his speeches subordinate it to the "paramount" question. But the Republican leaders would not permit it to be subordinated, made it the "paramount" issue and really fought the campaign on that.

What other issues were there to be made? The Democratic convention subordinated the silver issue to placate the gold Democrats, and even with that some of their organs kicked against Bryan and the party because he and it didn't recant previous declarations on the money question. We came as near doing that as we could by subordinating it to other issues. We took up the war of "criminal aggresion" as the paramount issue on which most of the gold Democrats agreed with us; and the Trusts, on which they nearly all agreed with us; and did our level best to make the campaign on these, but the Republican managers dodged both and made their fight on the dangers of free silver, which was not really an issue, and made their fight on that and on the "prosperity" which the McKinley admistration had brought the country. What nonsense, then, to talk about other issues or other candidates. The Republican managers fearing to go before the people on the issues the Democratic party presented, went down into the ground and dug up the issue which they had persistently declared buried four years ago.

What other issue was there for the Democratic party to make? It took the two questions that most immediately and vitally affected the American people and made issues of them—the Philippine question, which carried with it as a collateral issue (to quote Mark Hanna), a large standing army and imperialism; and the Trust question, which carried with it as a collateral issue a high protective tariff, tariff for protection only, a trust-breeding tariff. Here were issues enough, issues in which every man, woman and child in the country was more or less interested, and yet they didn't win.

What other issue could we have found, or if we had found it how could we have prevented the Republican leaders from dodging it and digging into the ground and resurrecting some other issue, as they have been doing ever since the war between the States?

In view of previous campaigns and the one preceding the election of Tuesday it is nonsense, we repeat, to talk of "other issues" or other candidates. The fact is if we had taken the Decalogue as our platform and Moses as our candidate, things being as they are now, with Mark Hanna's methods, Mark Hanna's campaign fund, and the elements of population that he had to manipulate they would have beaten us, the Decalogue and Moses.

That "prosperity" figured largely in the result there is no doubt. The party that is in power nearly always gets the credit and the benefit of whatever prosperity may prevail, as it is held responsible for whatever adversity may come. The man who thinks he is doing pretty well, who is making more money than he had been making before, who is better able to pay his debts if he has any, and to buy and pay for what he wants must have some very potent reasons given before he will cry for a change and vote for it. This is one of the reasons why the Republican party is as strong as it is in the rural regions and in the agricultural States of the North. They have profited by the higher prices for farm products, and they don't care a continental how long the war lasts in the Philippines or how many men are sacrificed in it it as long as they get ten cents a bushel more for their wheat or corn, or a couple cents a pound more for their beef or pork.

This may look like heartless, brutal selfishness, but it is a fact, nevertheless, although not a creditable fact. This selfishness, appealed from every stump, mercenary selfishness, was the cardinal principle and corner stone of Mark Hanna's prosperity fake with which he glorified the McKinley administration. With the credulous to believe the Republican fakirs on one side, and the selfish schemers who were personally profiting by having the Republican party in power on the other, these supplying the immense amounts of money to be put "where it would do the most good," no issue that could have been thought of could have defeated Mark Hanna and the knavery, money, and assertiveness that stood with and behind him. It was simply an invincible combination. Issues had much less to do with the result than the money, organization, brass, assertiveness, hypocrisy and aggressiveness of the cohorts that under the unscrupulous and conceded able leadership of Hanna and his staff won.

A SPLENDID ENDORSEMENT

The large majority, somewhere in the neighborhood of 50,000, cast in the primaries for Hon. F. M. Simmons as the choice of the Democracy of the State for U. S. Senator, is not only a well deserved tribute from his fellow Democrats, but it is a splendid endorsement of his management of the State Committee in three campaigns. The result is no reflection on his unsuccessful competitor, for the large vote he received is testimony enough of the appreciation of his services to the party, but the majority of the Democrats in the State felt that the party was indebted to Mr. Simmons for the earnest zeal with which he had repeatedly served it, and the self-sacrificing devotion he showed, and felt that he was entitled to the reward he had so well earned.

They felt, too, that in view of some of the unfortunate criticisms which had been made of Mr. Simmons course, which in the past had brought us victory, a failure to endorse him would have been practical self condemnation as well as condemnation of him, for we knew the man when we repeatedly, and without his seeking, and against his wishes, called him to the responsible post which he so loyally, industriously, tirelessly and zealously filled, and we rejoiced over and reaped the benefits of his work.

Under these circumstances we say that a failure to endorse him, would have been self condemnation by the Democracy of the State as well as condemnation of him. The enthusiasm with which the earnest Democrats in the State rallied to him proved that they had no idea of doing either.

But in thus endorsing Mr. Simmons the Democracy of the State is not merely rewarding services rendered regardless of his fitness to fill the honorable and responsible position for which they have named him, for he is as eminently qualified for this as any man within the borders of the commonwealth. A good lawyer, a studious and a hard worker, a forcible speaker and able debater, of pleasant address and agreeable manners, and with all this with a heart filled with ardent love for his native State, he is in every way competent to represent her and her Democracy loyally and ably in the United States Senate and we predict that he will not only do honor to them but make a Senator that they will feel proud of.

We congratulate Mr. Simmons on this splendid testimonial of appreciation from his fellow citizens, and congratulate the Democracy of the State on this emphatic endorsement of him and vindication of themselves.

A British steamer from Singapore to New York had a monkey show that made things lively for several days. A big lot of monkeys had been shipped for New York. When a couple of days out they broke out of their cage and took the ship. They climbed into the rigging, hid in the cabin, and went on the rampage generally. Three or four of them jumped overboard, and it was a week or more before the others were captured. One of them, which they called the police monkey, caught three or four of the mutineers himself. He is not an Irish monkey although his name is Pat.

The war in China has put a stop to railroad building in Russia, for the present. Two big projects have been abandoned, as Russia needs all her money to foot the bill of the racket in China. American shops will suffer some by this, as they furnished Russia with many locomotives, and our rolling mills furnished much of the steel rails used.

It is estimated that there are in the Western States and Territories 100,000,000 acres of arid lands which might be made fertile by irrigation, and be worth after irrigation $500,000,000 or more.

SENATOR BRYAN.

During the last campaign the Republican machine managers, under the lead and guidance of Mark Hanna, who made several speeches in the State and doubtless dispensed some Republican literature in the form of checks, paid special attention to Nebraska, Mr. Bryan's State, determined not only to carry it for McKinley, but to secure a majority in the Legislature to prevent the election of Bryan as Senator in the event he was defeated for the Presidency.

According to the last reports the State was in doubt, both parties claiming it, and both claiming the Legislature. If the Democratic claims be verified Wm. J. Bryan will be elected Senator, and they will find the man they hoped to kill politically a very live factor for some time to come. As Senator he will be in a position where he can render his country and his party eminent service. The Democracy of the country will rejoice to see him there, but how will Senator Hanna feel when he gets so near the whip lash of the man whom throughout the past campaign he pursued with such malevolence, and such brutal personal abuse. Even "Senatorial courtesy" and may not protect him from Bryan's lash. Senator Bryan would be retributive justice, the avenging Nemesis pursuing Hanna. In the general wreck this would be some satisfaction.

HON. JOHN D. BELLAMY.

It was a foregone conclusion from the time that Hon. John D. Bellamy was re-nominated for a second term in the House of Representatives that he would be re-elected. The Republican committee went through the formal farce of re-nominating Oliver H. Dockery, who, notwithstanding his previous sad experience and the way he was trampled out of shape at the last election, accepted in a ponderous document, which would have served all practical purposes if it had been condensed into two words, "I accept."

The fact that it was again Bellamy against Dockery gave more life to the campaign, for the Democrats who felt all along that Mr. Bellamy would be elected them resolved to give Mr. Bellamy a big majority—not only as a testimonial to him, but as a rebuke to Dockery for his groundless contest against Mr. Bellamy and for his slanderous charges against them, and right emphatically did they do it by giving him a majority this time more than twice as large as they gave him two years ago. This ought to satisfy Mr. Bellamy, who will go back to Washington with this overwhelming vindication of himself and of his district and the friends who supported him, and it ought to satisfy Oliver H. Dockery, too.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—— The German government has gone broke as a result of its participation in the descent on the Chinese and wants to borrow more money. It might very justly curtail expenses by cutting off the pay of its officers and men in China. They seem to have stolen enough to keep them in affluence for several years.—Norfolk Virginian Pilot, Dem.

—— A St. Louis family of four—father, mother, and two children—turns up with the record of having gradually reduced the expense of living, through an experiment of the father's until they reached the point of 10 cents a day. The wife then sought a divorce, however, on the ground that the last straw had been placed on the camel's back, and we can't say that we are surprised at her action. — Richmond Dispatch, Dem.

—— The great things that were expected to result from the designation of Field Marshal Count von Waldersee, Generalissimo of the allied forces in China have not materialized. The Herr Kaiser's pompous representative seems to exercise no authority or influence whatever, out side of the German camp, and "confusion," disorganization, and absence of "security" are reported as still prevailing among the allies.—Philadelphia Telegraph, Rep.

Goldsboro Headlight: The death of Mrs. Owen Hollingsworth occurred Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the home of her son, Mr. Thomas Hollingsworth, in this city. —— After a lingering illness, Mr. Thomas R. — Greensboro Record: It has always been charged that the Republicans have had plenty of money in Greensboro at a presidential contest. It had been given out a week ago, however, that this year Mark Hanna had refused to send down any, yet on the eve of the election a well known member of the county Republican committee was exhibiting a large roll of greenbacks. It was a little unusual to see him hauling around money and it was safe to say that he had "touched" Mark or some other fellow, for he had plenty of it. Indications are that the most of it was used outside of Greensboro, though a little of it was placed around in spots in town.

— Monroe Journal: Mark Austin, Monday night, crazed by drink, shot F. M. Boyte, a salesman at the Heath Hardware. They were standing in front of the hardware, talking, when Austin suddenly pulled out his pistol saying, "Look out, I am going to shoot somebody," began firing. He shot four or five times and Boyte was shot twice, once in each leg. The wounds are not dangerous but Mr. Boyte will perhaps be unable to walk for sometime. Austin was promptly arrested but was released on bond.—Ed Bivens a negro who lives near Marshville, was shot by his wife Friday night. Bivens, it seems, had whipped or was whipping one of the children when the woman became infuriated, snatched up a shot gun and emptied the load into his side. The negro was living yesterday, but it was thought that he would die. —— Will Amos, a negro, was found dead near the G., C. & N. railroad, three or four miles west of town, yesterday morning. Amos, who was a hotel waiter, left here Sunday morning trying to beat his way to Atlanta on the train. He was put off at Waxhaw and late Sunday evening was seen at Potter, walking towards Monroe. It is supposed that he had sat down on the cross-ties to rest and was struck by the north bound train Sunday night.

Japanese Women.

In Japan the matrimonial condition of women is even more emphasized than in this country. The widow is not alone in wearing a distinguishing costume there. Special designs of dress proclaim maiden and wife as well. Their marketable value is also made constantly public, as the style of the costume changes with each added year.

FOOTFALL MUSIC.

You may talk about your rambling walk
O'er meadows grassy green,
You may tell about your strolls in lonely lanes,
But the walking that's like talking,
That stimulates the brains,
Is on the city pavements hard and clean.

When the click of heels upon the brick,
The asphalt or the stone
Sounds a rapping, tapping tattoo in the ears,
It sets a willing chord a-thrilling,
And the drooping spirit cheers,
Raising us above the drum and drone.

It's a sound that makes the pulses bound,
That football music clear,
And its absence brings sometimes a homesick sigh;
It sends a feeling o'er us stealing
Of a human interest nigh,
Making life and all its pleasures doubly dear.
—Frank Farrington in New York Sun.

STONE BALLAST SAVES LIFE.

Lessens the Number of Persons Killed While Walking the Tracks.

"It has never appeared yet as an item among those published in reports of vital statistics relating to railroads," said a railroad official, "but it is a fact all the same that the stone ballasting of railroads has been a great life saver on roads that have adopted the use of that kind of ballast. I don't mean that it has lessened the dangers of travel to those who use railroad cars in their journeyings about the country, but that it has taken in a great measure the perils of travel from those who use the tracks and not the cars in getting from point to point.

"In the days of gravel and cinder ballast the roadbeds had become smooth and solid highways that were pleasant and easy for pedestrians, and the railroads were the popular routes not only for the professional tramp in his wanderings, but for mechanics, who found the railroad tracks convenient for short cuts between their working places and their homes, and for farmers living near towns, who chose the hard roadbeds not only as nearer routes, but much more to their liking than the muddy, rough or dusty wagon roads for their trading trips where a wagon was not required.

"No matter how many of these pedestrians, whether tramps or others, might be run down by rushing and confusing railway trains, and such fatalities were alarmingly frequent, the ever threatening dangers of the track were as nothing compared with its convenience and comfort, and pedestrianism of this kind not only was not scared off, but it actually increased. Stringent railroad orders against walking on the roadbed, enforced by strict police rules, could not affect this practice in the least, and the cars went on killing men, women and children with frightful regularity. But the invention of the stone crusher, without having this purpose at all in view, has accomplished what constant menace to life and limb never could have done. The dumping along the railroad tracks of rough and jagged bits of stone has changed them from smooth highways to jagged paths that cut the boots and hurt the feet and make the course of the walker not only difficult and slow, but exceedingly painful.

"It will tire a man more to walk a mile on a stone ballasted railroad bed than it will to walk ten on even the poorest turnpike or country highway, to say nothing of the wear and tear of footgear. The professional tramp is never so well shod that he cares to risk his feet to wounds his leather is powerless to prevent, and he hates extra exertion.

"So, with many anathemas on the economy that has covered the railroads with bruising and wearying stone, he shuns them and grumblingly seeks the longer country roads. Others and reputable people who habitually use the tracks as pathways have been forced to leave them with like regret, and they use hard language against the railroad companies."—Chicago Tribune.

Waltzing Mice.

The Japanese have a queer little domestic pet that is said to waltz through the greater part of the waking hours of its life, never growing tired, even if its feet wear out in the process.

The animal belongs to a peculiar breed of mice—black and white with pink eyes. One of their peculiarities is that when other baby mice are just beginning to walk these are beginning to waltz.

If several mice are put in together, they will often be seen waltzing in couples, and sometimes more than two will join in the mad whirl. So rapid is the movement that it is impossible to tell heads from tails. When the floor of the cage is not smooth, the mice actually wear out their feet, leaving only the stumps to whirl on.

Waltzing seems to be as necessary for the waltzing mouse as midair somersaults are to the tumbling pigeon. An upright peg forms a convenient pivot round which the mice can whirl, but Natural Science is the authority for the statement that without any such guide they would not in several minutes cover an area larger than a dinner plate, and they easily spin under a tumbler.

A Discord.

A weary congressman who could "snore upon the flint," occupied a room adjoining a German musician's.

"You will have to give me another room, I guess," said the congressman to the hotel clerk.

"What's the matter? Aren't you comfortable where you are?"

"Well, not exactly. That German musician in the next room and I don't get along well. Last night he tooted away on his clarinet so that I thought I never would go to sleep. After I had caught a few winks I was awakened by a pounding at my door. 'What's the matter?' I asked. 'Ot you please,' said the German, 'dot you vould schnore of der same key. You vas go from B flat to G, and it spoils der moosic.'"—Buffalo Enquirer.

If the man does not stop the cough the cough stops the man; stops his appetite, his sleep, his pleasure and his work. So called "cough remedies" sometimes relieve but they don't go deep enough to cure. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures coughs and diseases of the respiratory organs perfectly and permanently. It stops the cough. It heals the lungs, stops the hemorrhage, if the lungs are bleeding, and by purifying the blood and increasing the action of the blood-making glands enriches every organ with the good blood which alone will make a good body.

"My husband had been coughing for years and people frankly told me that he would go into consumption," writes Mrs. John Shireman, of No. 265 25th Place, Chicago, Ill. "He had such terrible coughing spells, we not only grew much alarmed, but looked for the bursting of a blood vessel or a hemorrhage at almost any time. After three days' coughing he was too weak to cross the room. The doctor did him no good. I stated the case to a druggist, who handed me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. My husband's recovery was remarkable. In three days after he began using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery he was up and around, and in two more days he went to work. Two bottles cured him."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness. They produce permanent benefit and do not re-act on the system. One is a gentle laxative, two a cathartic dose.

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Speculation in cotton was decidedly more active today. The market opened at an advance of six and ten points and further advanced eight to twenty two points, chiefly on covering, although there was considerably more attention paid to cotton by the investment class. The rise in prices was due largely to a better class of cable accounts, the important feature of which was the increased activity in spinning circles and the sensational frost forecasts. The upward movement of prices here was accelerated by better accounts from New England and Southern spinning sections, and also from cotton goods markets. More activity was also reported in the Southern spot markets with holders demanding higer prices. The rally was checked by selling to secure profits and moderate selling for short account. The general characteristics of the local market, however, were decidedly better. The frost predictions failed to unnerve shorts, while at the same time creating many new friends for the market in speculative circles. The close was steady with the net advance reduced to 19@21 points.

HE WAS A BOY AGAIN

AND HE SAW IN HIS MIND'S EYE THE CIRCUS OF HIS YOUTH.

Everything Was There, Animals, Pink Lemonade, Peanuts and All, and the Concert After the Show, With the Clown's Comic Songs.

The stroller stopped in front of a gaudy circus poster—one of a series which ran down a block of fence on the side street. There was something familiar about it and something, he could not say what, which was not. The balance was on the side of the familiar, however, and a moment later he was under a spell. He was a boy again; his long trousers somehow had got short, and he was wearing stockings, and he knew where to find the hole in them, just below the knee cap, and just above there was a spot on his right leg which felt comfortably sore from playing marbles. His shoulders shrunk in a trice, his chest grew boyishly flat, and he felt like thumping it to see if he were in condition to swap punches with Jimmy Brown. His height grew less, and his face, a moment ago waiting for a shave and very bristly, was soft and hairless; also he was back in a little southern village, and over by the village store where he got cinnamon and where his father bought the thick shoes with the shiny brass tips which he could not kick through. He knew, because he had tried without even hurting his toes, which were uneasily waiting barefoot time.

The sun grew warmer, too, and the air had the flat, sweet, earthy odor it gets from the prairie land. He sniffed the air greedily. His heart leaped within him, his breath was short, and there was something too big for his front ribs inside. He was a boy. The circus was coming to town and on Saturday, and there would be a parade, and—he reached his hand into a pocket which somehow seemed very small and pulled out his money—he had 35 cents, a two bits and two picayunes—and his father had promised him two bits if he would be good, and that was 10 cents over for lemonade. Which would he take? Pink or the other kind? Maybe both, or popcorn and the pink, which looked and tasted both.

Now, however, he would look at all the pictures on the side of the village store. He would do it systematically and fairly, which was the most gratifying. He would walk down to the end with his eyes straight ahead and deny himself a single side glance at the lions and the elephants in pyramids, or the ladies in pink flying about in air, or the man shot out of the cannon, or the monkeys. No, he would go slowly and hold his breath at length over the lion taming.

Yes, there they were! The three rings in a tent a mile long, and high, and millions of people on the benches packed tight, and a lady hopping through a hoop on to a leaping white horse, and the clowns, and the acrobats, and the ringmaster, and the Japanese jugglers. He studied their faces in detail to see if he could recognize any of the clowns. Then he looked at the roaring lions. "Gee, but I hope it don't rain!" he said, thinking of the awful task it would be to wait until circus time if he didn't see the lions in the parade in their gold cages. Incidentally he got ready his argument as to whether the lions could carry off Farmer Tates' old black bull, which served better than a watchdog in the orchard, and whether the sheriff's bloodhound, which caught the man who shot Johnny's uncle, could kill one of them. These arguments were to be used on the Brown boy, no matter which side he took.

Then there were the ostriches and the birds that were like ostriches, but didn't have such long feathers, and a pink bird. The elephants were in the next picture, and he wondered if the baby one was really that little and whether it ate only milk or would take peanuts. He would shell the peanuts first, if necessary. The wild west hunt spread away before him, and the buffaloes were fearfully combative. He thought he would like to hunt buffaloes and could use the gun with little shot at other times for squirrels. Robins, which were easy to hit, he would not shoot with a real gun. They were good enough for slungshots, but— He wanted a gun. Next there were all sorts of queer things—cows with humps, gray little cows, and wolves and a thing which rolled itself up into a ball. He didn't know what it was. It was kinder like a mud turtle in some respects; but, as the postmaster said, "You couldn't never be sure." He would investigate that if the elephant and monkeys didn't take too much time.

This brought him to the end of the fence. There was the pink paper with big black letters. He thought it would have no fears for him; he would have 60 cents and could go in openly and didn't need to carry water for the elephants. He stuck his hands in his pockets and stepped back to read the sign with comfortable arrogance. But what was that? "Concert after show. Clown's comic songs; 25 cents admission." Jimminee! He had forgotten that. He would have to give up the pink lemonade. But, no. Then he would save 10 cents. He wanted to hear those clowns almost as bad as to see the elephants, and he wanted the pink lemonade, and the baby elephant had to be fed. Jim Jones would brag if he didn't. He might go into the tent after the show and see the animals and go to the concert, but most of the cages would be closed. He stopped to think.

To think he had to kick his toes into the ground, and he looked to see what sort of holes the brass tips were making. He had on dapper patent leather shoes and was old and in the city, had a college diploma and a good position. He pulled some money from his pocket and studied it idly. It was a $10 bill. He would give it all to be just a boy and would be happy with the two bits and a dime and let the concert go, and father would be—Well, he'd go to the circus anyhow—just for old times—and borrow the landlady's boy and take him too.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

They Don't Speak Now.

"When I marry," said the young woman of advanced ideas, "I shall insist upon my husband taking my name."

"I would, too," replied the demure young woman promptly, "if I expected to get that sort of a man."—Chicago Post.

A Beautiful System.

The Memphis Scimitar tells of a recent bride whose husband noticed that she was keeping an itemized account of the household expenses. In looking it over one day he noticed at the bottom of each page or two the letters "D. K. W." This somewhat puzzled him. He really found it very difficult to keep from thinking about what these letters could possibly mean. It occurred to him that possibly his wife was saving out some money to buy something for him. But then he knew that his initials were not "D. K. W," and this did not prove a satisfactory solution to the matter.

So one day when his wife was in a real good humor he took her in his arms and asked what she meant by "D. K. W, 50 cents," "D. K. W., $1" and the like.

She replied: "'D. K. W.' stand for 'don't know what.' Whenever I went to balance my account at the end of each page and found I had spent money for which I could not account, I just put in a sufficient amount, with the item 'D. K. W.,' to make it balance just exactly."

MIND READING.

A Parlor Trick That Is Surprising and Mystifying.

One member of the company may be gently prompted to beg that Mr. and Mrs. So-and-so give a test of mind reading. When the question is settled, all the company take seats, and an easy chair is provided for the mind reader, who is supposed to be in a semitrance.

Then slips of paper and a good, soft pencil that will make a dark mark are handed around. Each person present is to write down the name of some person, a famous hero or author, musician or artist or some person, man or woman, whose name is a household word. As fast as these are written they are tossed into a hat held by some one who is appointed to collect the slips. The hat with the slips is then handed to the mind reader's assistant, who at once puts it behind them on a table or chair, so that the mind reader could not by any possibility see it. The mind reader now sits back and grows dreamy, and the assistant makes a few passes over his forehead. Then she takes one slip from the hat and holds it against the top of his head lightly, and he begins by saying:

"All is vague. Ah, now I see! There is a piano. What lovely music fills the room! What melody! Ah, yes, it is Paderewski!"

Then the assistant hands the slip of paper to the mind reader, and he holds it in his hands, while the assistant puts another slip to his head and he goes through the same mummery. The mind reader never makes a mistake and always says something so opposite that every one knows who is meant before the slip is given him from which he reads the word. A clever man can do wonders and have every one (who does not know the trick) marveling at it. All watch the assistant to be sure she does not tell him.

The trick is here. The first slip that is put on his head is not the first one answered. A pretended answer is given to a question that is not asked, and that leaves the mind reader free to begin on the real question when he gets the first slip with its name. So, if his first answer was Paderewski, he receives the slip with perhaps George Washington, and so on through all the list. If one has never seen that done and it is well done, it proves a source of deep interest.—Boston Herald.

Taken at His Word.

A southerner brought suit some years ago against the South Carolina railroad for damages to his property. He lost the case in the superior court, but insisted upon carrying it to the supreme court, where he represented his own cause. He began his argument by saying whimsically:

"May it please the court, there is an old French adage which says, 'A man who is his own lawyer hath a fool for a client.'"

The next week the supreme court pronounced its decision, which was adverse to the southerner. He was in Augusta at the time, but received the announcement of his second and final disappointment by means of a telegram sent him by a prominent judge, who was an intimate friend of his. The telegram read as follows:

"Judgment for defendant in error. French adage affirmed by supreme court."—New York Telegram.

Grateful For His Luck.

"And you swear you never accepted a bribe in the late election?" asked the judge.

"I'd swear it all day, yer honner."

"Did you not have $100 in your pocket on the morning of the election, when you did not possess a dollar in the world previous to that?"

"I did, yer honner, but I found it in the big road nigh the canderdate's house, an when I tol' him 'bout it he said: 'All right; findin is keepin. Jest go 'long with it.' An I wuz so grateful ter him, yer honner, that I rolled up my sleeves an give him the best votes I had in the family."—Atlanta Constitution.

EXPOSING A HOTEL BEAT.

The Elevator, or, Rather, His Red Underwear, Did It.

"I've had a variegated experience with hotel beats in my time," said a veteran boniface who was in town on a visit the other day, "but I believe the funniest incident in that line that ever came under my observation occurred some years ago when I had charge of a house at a sister city not a thousand miles from New Orleans.

"One rainy evening shortly after the arrival of the eastern trains a tall, good looking chap walked into the office swathed from neck to heels in a long cape mackintosh. It was as handsome a rain coat as I ever saw, and his fashionable hat and the expensive alligator skin valise he carried in his hand completed the outward picture of a man of means. He wrote his name on the register and, remarking that he was thoroughly fatigued and not feeling very well, asked to be shown at once to his room. The clerk assigned him to quarters on the third floor, and one of the bellboys picked up his valise and led the way to the elevator.

"When they got out, the elevator man slammed the door rather suddenly and kept on going up to answer a call in the next story. It so happened that the long skirt of the stranger's mackintosh caught on a slight projection on the ironwork of the door, and as the car shot upward it stripped the garment off his back, very much after the fashion of skinning an eel, leaving him, to the blank amazement of the bellboy, clad in nothing but a suit of red flannel underwear.

"I was coming down the hall just as the accident happened, and I took in the situation at a glance. The fellow had expected to gain his room without detection and in the morning would have claimed that somebody had stolen his clothes with heaven only knows how much money in the trousers pockets and probably a gold watch in the vest.

"Anyhow, he was caught 'dead to rights,' as the saying goes, and he was taken so completely by surprise that he couldn't invent any story to account for his condition. He begged piteously not to be arrested, and I finally told him to get out, but before he could leave the house he had to have some clothes, and he swapped his elegant valise for a pair of greasy overalls and a blue cotton jumper belonging to the engineer. I heard afterward that he had caught several big houses on the same game."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

CHURCHGOING IN OLDEN TIMES.

Attendants at Service Used to Have a Very Sociable Season.

Sir Walter Besant has written whimsically, giving a glimpse of churchgoing a couple of hundred years ago. He says: "Did you ever go to a church in 1703? I have just come from a service at St. Stephen's, Walbrook, a Sunday morning service in that year. The congregation began to arrive a quarter of an hour or so before the service commenced. The ladies were dressed finely. A footman or a page or an apprentice walked behind them carrying their prayer books. He preceded them up the aisle, opened the door of their pew and placed the books on the desk before the seats. This done, he retired to a place under the gallery where the domestics sat.

"The women in the pew stood up and exchanged smiles of greeting with their acquaintances; with those in the pews before and behind them conversed openly; the church was filled with the buzz of conversation. When the service began, a great many, to show their devoutness, repeated everything out aloud, even the absolution and the verses assigned to the clergymen. They even read out loud the lessons of the day and the gospel and epistle. Some of the people continued to talk to each other from one pew to the other. A psalm, not a hymn, was sung, and only one.

"During the singing most of the people sat down. After the service was over the churchgoers renewed their civilities toward each other and their conversation on things of the most worldly kind. My companion lamented the ill timed talk of the people and the foolish habit of repeating the whole service out loud; as for sitting while the psalm was sung, he said it was to be excused on the ground that the version was miserable. Besides, it was a 'custom so inveterate' that there was no hope of getting it altered.

"Yet when I went to church with Hogarth 30 years later the people all stood up for the singing. How and when was the custom changed? How long did the people continue reading the service aloud? And when were the practice of conversation and the exchange of civilities before the service discontinued?"

Oil Bathing.

Oil bathing is a regular institution among the Hindoos. An experienced masseur rubs the oil on his patrons, friends or relatives generally once a week. And it is a fact that moles, warts and such faults of the surface of the skin are very rare among them. The newborn infant gets the oil bath daily for 40 days. The intervals are then gradually lengthened, but he will be considered a very naughty boy who during his school days tries to shirk the oil bath at least once a week. As a youngster he yells all the time he is being bathed. Perhaps it is good for his lungs. Anyhow nobody thinks of finding fault with the nurse for the hallooing of her charge, and, generally speaking, it may be said that Indians have better lungs and better pectorals as compared to the body weight than the Europeans, and the feminine bust is decidedly fuller and more perfect. —C. FRIDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 9.

THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE.

Republicans Claim That McKinley Will Have 308 Votes—Nebraska Still Doubtful.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, November 8.—As a result of messages received at Republican national headquarters to-day by N. B. Scott, from doubtful points, Mr. Manley gave out the following statement.

"Full returns leave the situation as it was yesterday. We have won by 308 electoral votes. We have carried every Northern State but Colorado, Nevada and Montana with ten votes. We have carried Kentucky, Maryland, Delaware and West Virginia. As we predicted during the entire campaign they are attempting to rob us of the electoral votes in Kentucky under the power of the Goebel law. If they succeed we shall have 295 electoral votes. Our candidate for Governor wires that we have carried Kentucky for the electoral ticket and have elected him by over 7,000 majority. The time hase ome when the American people ought to insist at whatever cost that the votes shall be counted as they were honestly cast."

Senator Scott, in answer to telegrams inquiring as to the result in Nebraska, received the following dispatch from E. Rosewater, member of the national advisory committee, who is a candidate for the United States Senatorship from Nebraska: "Returns from rural districts incomplete, but no doubt whatever that McKinley carries Nebraska by not less than 3,000. Governorship close but prospects favor Republicans. Both houses of Legislature will be Republican by small majority.

TO EXPLOIT CUBA.

Northern Capitalists Seeking to Secure Control of Valuable Properties—A Company Organized.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—Following a meeting of New York, Philadelphia and Canadian capitalists in this city last night, Sir William C. VanHorn, chairman of the board of directors of the Canadian Pacific railroad, and his son, R. B. VanHorn, of Montreal, sailed from here to-day on the steamer Admiral Sampson for Santiago, where they will make an effort to secure options on all horse and trolley lines in Cuba and also on all sugar plantations in the island. The departure of the two men was the result of the permanent organization at last night's meeting of the Cuba Company, with a capital of $10,000,000. Sir William presided at the meeting and the others present, besides his son, were William L. Elkins and Thomas Dolan, of this city, R. A. Smith, president of the Cuban Mail Steamship Company, and Dr. T. W. Sheppard and M. L. Evans, of Montreal.

The purpose of the company, it is announced, is to secure control of all electric light and trolley franchises in Cuba and to establish plants and systems in every city. The purpose, it is said, will not be confined to the control of these franchises alone, but will ultimately take in steamroads and also sugar plantations. The entire capital stock of the company, it is said by those interested, has been subscribed.

KENTUCKY ELECTION.

Democrats Claim Majorities for Bryan and Beckham—Republican Claims.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

LOUISVILLE, KY., November 8.—With returns from all but thirty out of 1,884 precincts in Kentucky, the Courier-Journal puts Bryan's majority at 8,000 and Beckham's at 5,000. The missing precincts have been taken into account in this result. The Republicans now claim that majorities will be shown for McKinley and Yerkes when the returning board canvasses the vote at Frankfort, which it will do three weeks from election day. The returning board is Democratic and the Legislature is also Democratic. Ex-Governor James B. McCreary who managed the Democratic campaign, to-night closed the headquarters and will to-morrow return to his home at Richmond. He said to-night that he had heard from campaign chairmen in every county in the State and that allowing all the Republican claims in the Eleventh district, he placed the majorities of Bryan and Beckham respectively at 8,000 and 5,000.

FRANKFORT, KY., Nov. 8.—Returns have been sent by Democratic county committees to the Democratic State officers here on which the following estimate of the Kentucky election for Governor is made, by congressional districts:

For Beckham, Democrat: First, 10,045; second, 3,650; third, 175; fourth, 2,838; sixth, 5,382; seventh, 3,856; eighth, 890; tenth, 1,172—total, 28,008.

For Yerkes, Republican: Fifth, 5,204; ninth, 94; eleventh, 18,922—total, 24,220.

These figures are based on complete returns from all but four counties and estimates were made on the partially missing counties.

YELLOW FEVER OUTBREAK.

Another Case Reported at Natchez, Miss. One Death.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

JACKSON, MISS., November 8.—One new case of yellow fever is reported to the State Board of Health from Natchez this morning. Mrs. Butler, the first patient reported, died last night. She was a niece of Governor Longino. A surgeon of the Marine Hospital Service is now in Natchez endeavoring to trace the source of the infection.

AN IMPORTANT DIFFERENCE.

To make it apparent to thousands, who think themselves ill, that they are not afflicted with any disease, but that the system simply needs cleansing, is to bring comfort home to their hearts, as a costive condition is easily cured by using Syrup of Figs. PLANNING FOR REORGANIZATION.

Talk of a Meeting to Be Held Shortly in the City of New York.

STONE SAYS IT IS ABSURD.

Hon. John G. Carlisle's Views—Believes That the Party Should at Once Organize on a Democratic Basis and Prepare for 1904.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—A special to the Chronicle, from Detroit, says:

"Don M. Dickinson is authority for the statement that within three weeks a meeting will be held in New York city to outline a plan of reorganization for the Democratic party. He says the call for the meeting will have the signatures of prominent Democrats. The meeting, Mr. Dickinson says, will be attended by Democrats of both gold and silver leanings. It will be mailed throughout the land, appealing to all Democrats, gold and silver alike."

Discredited by Stone.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Ex-Governor William J. Stone said of the proposed reorganization of the Democratic party:

"This kind of talk always follows the defeat of any party. Had the Republicans been defeated they would be talking reorganization to day. Those who have the most to say about reorganization are generally the ones who contributed most to the defeat of their party."

John G. Carlisle's Views.

ATLANTA, GA., Nov. 8.—Hon. John G. Carlisle has wired the Atlanta Journal in response to a request from that paper, for his views on the reorganization of the Democratic party. Mr. Carlisle says:

"In my opinion the Democratic party should at once organize on a Democratic basis.

"An immediate return to the conservative and patriotic position occupied by the party before it was demoralized by Populism and free silver Republicans in 1896 will invite all true Democrats in active opposition to the objectionable policies of the administration, insure the success of our Northern friends in State and local contests and prepare the way for a great national victory in 1904.

"The Democratic votes cast for McKinley were not endorsements of his party or his administration but protests against what was considered the dangerous purposes and tendencies of the opposing candidates.

(Signed.) "J. G. CARLISLE"

Henry Watterson's Views.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., Nov. 8.—Hon. Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal wires the Times-Union and Citizen the following statement:

"With the elimination of the money issue there ought to be no further factional division among the Democrats. If free silver was not dead before, assuredly it is dead now, beyond the hope of resurrection and redemption, having done harm enough to discredit it forever, even among it zealous adherents. There will continue to be two great opposing political organizations. Defeated to day, the Democrats may win to-morrow. They will find issues arising out of the nature of public affairs, and involved by the course of events. Leaders suited to these will, in good time and season, arrive upon the scene. It is too early to particularize. Suffice to say, that there will always be a party of strict construction, as against a party of loose construction, and that, readjusted to the more conservative requirements of the country, the Democratic party will reappear as the contending force in the public life of the people."

NEW ORLEANS, November 8.—The New Orleans Picayune sent telegraphic requests to many leading Democrats in various sections of the country asking expressions with reference to the future of the Democratic party. The following are extracts from some of the replies:

Hoke Smith, Atlanta, Ga.

"I doubt the advisability of a distinct movement by a few men with the purpose of reorganization. A party which can poll the enormous vote that the Democratic party has recently polled is far from being a dead party. More conservative councils will prevail in future Democratic conventions, and with a pronounced sound money platform in 1904, with a man against whom no factional fight can be made, there is every reason to believe the party will triumph."

Horace Boies of Iowa.

"My belief is we should drop 16 to 1. Let the money question rest while conditions remain as at present, organize Democratic clubs in every voting precinct to send delegates to county, from county to State and from State to national conventions, of delegates to meet periodically and formulate a platform for the party. This should be based on principles enunciated in our Declaration of Independence. Insist on a strict construction of the sole source of legislative power in Congress. No subjugation of unwilling people by force. Expansion in everything that pertains to peace contraction in everything that pertains to unnecessary war. One form of government for all, one flag, one people, with equal rights to all and a special privilege to none."

Favor Reorganization.

INDIANAPOLIS, November 8.—Leading Democrats favor reorganization of the Democratic party with the retirement of Wm J. Bryan from the leadership, and a different management of the party from that of the past few years. Hill, Olney and Pattison are suggested as candidates for the Presidency four years hence. Samuel E. Morse, proprietor of the Sentinel, says he has no doubt the real Democrats see the necessity of uniting to make a struggle to enforce Jeffersonian principles in the government. Mr. Marse says the Democratic party cannot win unless it shall have a different management from what it has had for several years and that it must nominate some man as patriotic and incorruptible as Mr. Bryan, but of a wholly different temperament.

Senator John M. Morgan.

The Democratic party needs no reconstruction. It needs fidelity to its creed, which has stood for one hundred years. At present it demands the payment of the national debt and a return to the specie basis for banking. It demands the restoration to the States of the exclusive right to determine the qualification of moters. It demands that all Federal taxation shall be equal and uniform in places within the limits of the United States. It demands the suppression of trusts, especially the corporations, in respect of all articles of commerce that are subjects of interstate and foreign commerce.

"If Democracy adheres to these demands our present defeat will be only temporary."

TROUBLE WITH MOROCCO.

United States Trying to Collect Indemnity for Murder of an American Citizen.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, November 8.—The instructions of the State Department to United States Consul Gunnere, at Tangier, under which he acted yesterday, were to collect an indemnity from the Moorish government for the murder of Marcus Essagin, a naturalized American citizen who was killed about a year ago by a mob. Essagin became involved in an altercation with a Moor, against whom he had accidentally run, when a crowd of the Moor's companions fell upon him and beat him to death. The Moorish government disclaimed the responsibility for the killing, but the United States government contended that the Moorish government had failed in its obligations in declining to take any steps to punish the perpetrators of the crime. Now Mr. Gunnere is directed again to present the case, with an urgent request for a settlement.

It so happens that the big battleship Kentucky is making her way through the Mediterranean to Manila, and if she touches at a Moorish port, as she would be very like to do, her presence may have a beneficial effect in stimulating action upon the consul's demands.

ELECTION DAY ROW.

Fight Between Two Prominent Citizens of Hillsboro, Fla.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., November 8.—News reaches here of a serious election day row at Key Stone Park, Hillsboro county. George Mobley and Thomas Moody, prominent citizens of that section, became involved in a quarrel at the primary polling place, and the altercation finally resulted in a fight, in which one of the participants was badly stabbed. They were then separated, but few minutes subsequently it is alleged that Mobley shot Moody while standing in the doorway of the building in which the election was being held. It is reported that Moody will not live. On account of the prominence of both the parties the affair has caused considerable excitement.

TWO BODIES FOUND.

Taken from the Ruins of the Tarrant Building in New York.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, November 8—Two bodies were taken from the ruins of the Tarrant building to day. The first was that of Hamilton Matthews, a driver for Terrant & Company, the remains were shockingly mutilated. Later, the diggers in the ruins came across another body. This proved to be that of Benjamin Moorehouse, the missing shipping and stock clerk of the company. Moorehouse was 51 years old and had been missing since the day of the explosion. With him in all probability died also all possibility of explaining the fire horror It was Moorehouse who had charge of the storage book of the big drug firm in which was a list of the explosives stored in the building. No trace of this book was found.

CARS TIED UP.

Strike of Motormen and Conductors at Pensacola, Fla.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

PENSACOLA, FLA., November 8.—No electric cars have been run on any of the lines here since 11 o'clock this morning, the motormen and conductors having gone out on a strike.

Some time ago, on the statement of physicians that the long hours of standing were injurious to the health of the motormen, the company permitted them to use stools. The new rules prohibit the use of these stools. The men demanded their stools back, but the company refused to accede to the demand, hence the strike.

The strikers are supported by District Assembly Knights of Labor and they have applied to all labor unions not to patronize the cars should the company attempt to run them with non-union men.

RUSSIA ANNEXES CHINA'S TERRITORY

Foreign Consuls at Tien Tsin Officially Notified by the Russian Consul.

BY RIGHT OF CONQUEST.

Delay in Progress of Negotiations Caused by Disagreement Among Representatives of the Powers--Rebellion in South China Disastrous.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

TIEN TSIN, via Shanghai, November 8.—General Linevitch, commander of the Russian troops, has officially notified the foreign consuls, through the Russian consul, that the land on the river side opposite the British and German settlements, has been annexed to Russia by right of conquest. Unless all foreign owners of property immediately deposit documents proving their ownership no claims will be entertained. Much railroad property, as well as the east arsenal, is included in the territory annexed by Russia. The consuls will protest against the annexation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, said to day in regard to the reported annexation of territory in Tien Tsin by the Russian government, that he felt very sure that no such step had been taken. He touched upon the possibility of a Russian concession similar to the British and French allotments having been made, but dismissed the report that Russia had summarily taken possession of the territory referred to as entirely improbable.

Reports from Conger.

Additional reports from Mr. Conger to day record the progress of the efforts being made at Pekin to bring the foreign ministers into agreement as to the basis of negotiations with China The department declines to make public any of the deliberations.

Rebellion is Ruining Commerce.

PARIS, November 8.—A dispatch to the Havas agency, from Pekin, announces that a high Chinese personage says the rebellion being organized in South China is ruining commerce, that the revenues are decreasing, and that the payment of the interest on the debt in the Spring is doubtful.

Prince Ching and Li Hung Chang, the dispatch says, regret the delay in presenting the peace propositions and express fears as to the future. They are ready to accept propositions based on M. Del Casse's proposals, but, it is further asserted, the foreign ministers are meanwhile marking time and discussing secondary questions.

The Chinese dispatch concludes that the occupation of the Imperial tombs at Si Ling is considered as being more important than the capture of the Emperor and the Dowager Empress

STEAMSHIP COMBINATION.

Involves Many Companies and Many Millions of Dollars.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8.—There were rumors current to-day concerning a combination of trans-Atlantic steamship companies which will involve several companies and many millions of dollars. It was said that the Atlantic Transport Company, which operates lines of steamships between New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and London, will be a part of the combination.

Details of the deal are carefully guarded, but it is understood that the stockholders of the Atlantic Transport Company will receive more than $200 per share for their holdings in the event of the consummation of the deal.

McKINLEY IN WASHINGTON.

Welcomed by Several Hundreds of People at the Depot.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, November 8.—President McKinley and his party arrived here at 8:10 o'clock this morning. Several hundreds of people had assembled at the Pennsylvania R. R depot to bid the President welcome and a large detail of police was on hand to prevent a crush. Secretary Hitchcock, General Corbin and other officials gathered around the President's car and were the first to welcome and congratulate him. The crowd outside broke into hearty cheers when the President made his appearance with Mrs. McKinley. After hearty greetings the party was driven to the White House where the President had breakfast and returned to his duties. The trip beyond Pittsburg was at night and uneventful, although knots of people gathered at the stations throughout the night to see the train go by.
